The great mil'-Seymour knocked out of time-his backers loose faith, but refuse to give up s'akes or belt-Grant to fight the "great unknown,"

Fun for the Campaign.

The political contest this fall bears a strilling resemblance to that between Mile McCoo and Aaron Jones in their late mill near Cincinnati. Jones represented the New York plug-uglies and Eastern "fancies;" McCool the St. Louis I ruisers and Western "sports." Seymour is the champ on of the Eastern copperheads. His traine. were Sam Tilden and Manton Marble, Belmont bottle-holder, and Frank Blair and Wade Hampton his seconds in the ring, who are hot and impetuous and want the fighting forced. Grant is the Western champion of the Republicans, Stanton and Wasbburne trainers, A. T. Stewart bottle-holder, and Colfax and Wade seconds in the ring, who are cool and experienced, and tell their principal to stand squarely on his platform late mill near Cincinnati. Jones reprepal to stand squarely on his platform and when he gets his oppenent in chancery to pummel him well. Uncle Sam umpire. Both men toss their beavers into the ring, and on a call of time, tog the scratch.

toe the scratch.

Grant put out his left hand as a feeler. Seymour struck a spiteful blow, but was far "out of distance." Grant returned it with his right, flattening Seymour's "smeller." First blood for Grant, and loud cheers from his friends.

Round 2, (Fought in Maine.) A blow from Grant's "left duke" caught Seymour on the "potato trap," knocking a mouthful down his throat, and leaving the "Utica kid" sprawling on the grass with his heels in the air. The blow was heard all over the field. Tremendous cheers from the Western boys, and offers to bet two to one and a tew takers. takers.

Round 3, (Fought in Colorado.) Slight exchanges on both sides. Seymour went to grass to avoid punisament. Cheers from the Grant men. Round 4, (Fought in Nebraska.)
Both parties wary and watching for an opening, when Grant g its in a nice lick on the ribs. Seymeur down. More cheers from the Western crowd, Round 5. Terrific fighting (in Indiana); blows given and taken in quick succession.

succession, the speciators hold their breath; offers to bet that Seymour wins SUGAR CURED HAMS breath; offers to bet that Seymour wins the round, which are snapped up in the "twinkling of a bed post;" the combatants clinch and, after a severe struggle, Grant throws his man and falls heavily on him. Both men cut and bloody, but Seymour has one "optic" in mourning,

Round 6. Time called; Grant coming up smilling; Seymour looks faint and glum: Grant forc. s all the fighting (in Onio) and drives his antagonist on the topes, where he gets his head in chancery and "mashes his mug;" Seymour slips down awfully mauled in this round. Terrific cheering for Grant. Five to one offered and few takers. Seymour sits on his second's knee, and is mour sits on his second's knee, and is well sponged by his backers, and told to "go in and win" in Pennsylvania.

Round 7 and last. Both men go at each other with vigor, striking tremendons blows. Seymour strikes under the belt (Philadelphia); cries of foul, but not allowed. Great excitement. Grant gives him a heavy lick from Lancaster on the smeller, and gets one nearly as heavy on the ribs for Berks; hard fighting on both sides, when Grait, seeing an opening, plants an awful blow, for Alleghany, with his manly, on Sey-morr's ribs, doubling him up and knock ng him through the ropes about a rou. The Copperhead here lay quiver-ing on the grass, the b eath punched out of his body, his face a ghastly livid . u .. No effo. ts of his backers or bottleholders could revive him before "time" was called, when his second threw up the sponge, in token of deteat. When the poor fellow came to, he looked wildly about him, spit blood profusely, Puff and Powder Boxes, Colognes, Toilet Soaps. and asked, "Where am 1? Did a horse kick me, or a locomotive run over me?

What is the matter with me?' The last, Pennsylvania, round was very scientifically fought on both sides, but Grant exhibited the most muscle, struck straight from the shoulder, and knocked his oppenent out of time in that Alleghany blow. When the fight was over, Grant seemed to be just get-ting his "second wind," and appeared as f.esh and powerful as when he entered the ring. It was apparent that Seymour could not endure punishment, nor stay in the ropes. But now comes the most singular part of this affair. The men had been previ-ously matched for a final contest for the champion belt of the United States, to take place on the 3rd of November. The first mill was for some large stakes that their friends had up, and was only regarded in the light of a preliminary meeting that might indicate, perhaps to the knowing ones, which was the "best man." It was a sort of prac-tice about, intended to develop muscle, try wind, and ascertain who was the hardest hitter and had the most science, preparatory to the grand mill to come off on the 3rd proximo for the prize belt, a big chair, and a White House. Butto the astonishment of everybody, Sey-mour's trainers, a few days after the fight, announce that their man is withdrawn, and won't see more of Grant within the ropes. They refuse to give up either the stakes or belt, and insist that Grant must fight the "great un-known." They have lost faith entirely in their man, and declare that he is too light weight, and has neither wind, science, nor "staying" qualities, and they shall not fight him against the "Western Glant."

Grant's backers take it very coolly. They say to the other fellows, "Do as you like, gentlemen; bring on your man. It makes no sort of difference to us who he is, whe her he is heavy or light weight, or where you find him. Our man will whip him out of his boots, and we will double the bets on it. Play or pay,"—Chicago Tribune.

It is calculated that thirty-five thousand hats were tet on the result of the WM. N. SMITH, & CO'S.
